There were seven fatal accidents in the Western Australian mineral industry during 2008-09.

- A truck operator at a gold mine died after falling from a Caterpillar 777 haul truck. It is believed that he had been cleaning the truck's windshield.
- A rail track maintenance worker was fatally injured when struck by a train at a siding on an iron ore railway. He appears to have been looking at a machine on the second track of the siding and the passing train.
- A scalloping undertaking construction work at an iron ore mine expansion project was fatally injured when he fell through a grid mesh floor to a floor 7 metres below.
- A filter at an iron ore mine was fatally injured when a bulldozer belly plate fell on him during maintenance work on the bulldozer at the mine waste dump.
